COMING CITIZENS AND EDUCATION

The Rev. William Bourquin's Able Exposition

Different Elements That Go to Develop Our Citizens Discussed in Sermon.

ADVANTAGES OF OUR LIBRARY.

Following is the sermon delivered yesterday by the Rev. William Bourquin at the German Evangelical church on the subject "Education."

And he humbled thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna, * * * that he might make thee know that man doth not live by bread alone, but by everything that proceedeth out of the mouth of Jehovah doth he live. Deuteronomy 8:3.

Two especial things God did for the children of Israel during their journey through the wilderness. He gave them food, revealing himself as the loving God who cared for them. But he gave them more than that. He gave them his commandments that not by bread but by doing His will they should truly live. It is God speaking through Moses that eating and drinking is not the most important in life, but that there is something higher whereby and for which to live. The first verse points to it. "All the commandments which I command thee this day shall ye observe to do that ye may live."

We live in a commercial age. Nearly every individual city and nation is deeply interested and actively engaged in commercialism. There is the danger of thinking of bread alone. But we are overcoming the danger by another movement that is moving in harmony with the commercial and that is the educational movement. A new interest in education, in the broadest sense of the term, is sweeping over our country, and it is bringing to us more forcibly than ever before the true principles of life.

Education is more than knowledge. Education embraces the development along the five principal lines of human activity. First the knowledge of the material world; second, knowledge of language, or the manner of expression; third a realization and love of the beautiful in appearance and sound; fourth, a developed sense of the social element of life, with its beauties and responsibilities, and fifth and before all, a response to the supernatural or religious. These represent the great channels of victory in this life. They are the things we find ourselves inclined to and capable of doing. They are natural to us. Education is the drawing out, the development of these natural tendencies by the reading and hearing of facts and opinions, by thinking or study and by activity or experience.

As the elements of education are natural it is our duty to develop them in our self first. We and others benefit by it. But we have duties toward others, who have not the opportunity nor enlightenment we have. Thus it becomes the duty of all, of the individual, of the city, state and nation to direct attention to this great subject of education. A great deal has been done, but a great deal more needs to be done.

The Agencies.

Educational agencies have been set to work all over the country. Some of the wealth of our country has been given for the purpose of building libraries and colleges wherever most needed. The best talent is brought to nearly every community by lecture courses and chautauques. Woman's influence has been enlisted through the educational committees of the women's clubs. Many newspapers are lending their influence to the higher development of man. Our wonderful system of public schools is extending its influence wherever possible. Sunday schools and churches are at work everywhere.

Thus body, mind and soul find opportunity for development.

The educational movement of our time is at work in our midst through its various agencies. We are helping and must strive to do still better work in the great movement for the uplifting of humanity. We have a good library in our city. A library is a wonderful power for good. Many fail to see it and grumble at the few cents added to their taxes. But even they

I. C. SHOPMEN MAKE FAST RUN TO FIRE

Awakened at Early Hour By Warning Blast They Are at Work Extinguishing the Blaze in Few Minutes

CHIEF OF FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Four loud blasts of the Illinois Central shop whistles sounded a fire alarm this morning at 4 o'clock, and a dozen drowsy carmen, including Foreman George Bondurant, of the planing mill, and chief of the department, tumbled out of bed to answer the alarm. They were members of the Illinois Central private fire department, and within fifteen minutes after the sounding of the alarm were on the scene with 600 feet of hose stretched. A slender car on the repair tracks west of the planing mill was burning briskly when the firemen arrived. Within a few minutes after the hose was stretched the fire was extinguished. But for the timely discovery of the conflagration many cars in the storage repair tracks might have been consumed.

FOUR CARS BURN IN WRECK ON I. C.

Serious Derailment This Side of Princeton in Which Nine Freight Cars are Involved—Great Damage

LOSS IS SEVERAL THOUSAND.

A serious freight wreck at the foot of Dulancy Hill, two miles north of Belknap station, and 40 miles north of Paducah on the Illinois Central, occurred Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Four cars were burned out of nine, which were derailed. No one was injured. The damage is about $8,000.

The train was No. 155, from Evansville, a mixed freight, which is "split" at Princeton and run into Paducah as an extra, in charge of Engineer Rogers and Conductor Hughes. When the train went down Dulancy Hill, nine cars left the track at the bottom. Two were oil cars, which were partly demolished, scattering oil over the wreckage. The train caught fire and a busy call took the local wrecker to the scene.

Volunteers worked on the wreckage and prevented several cars from igniting. The oil cars and two loaded with merchandise were burned up.

This morning the wrecker returned to the scene. The five derailed cars not burned were shoved into the clear. The fast flyer, No. 2, passing Paducah at 11:25 o'clock, was delayed over an hour, as were several freight trains.

BEAUTY CONTEST.

Will Be Interesting Feature of C. L. U. Excursion.

To say that the committee of the Central Labor Union is elated is putting it mildly, although the members fear they are going to run short of tickets for their Island Queen excursion on April 25. A great part of the credit is due to the pretty contest between the following fair inhabitants of Paducah: Miss Nellie Mercer, Miss Mabel Lowery, Miss Edith Sirk, Miss Pronte Welkert, Miss Gertrude Hagge.

A ballot box has been placed in the office of the steamer Island Queen where the votes may be deposited at any time during the day, the steamer probably lying at the wharf all day. The box will not be opened until she leaves on the last trip in the evening, after which time no more votes will be allowed. The announcement of the result of the vote and presentation of the prizes will be made in the grand dancing salon of the steamer as soon as the decisions are made.

At 8 o'clock a second alarm called the No. 1, 3 and 4 companies to the residence of Mr. Albert Myles, Thirteenth and Trimble streets. A coal house was burning. It was extinguished with a few dollars damage to the roof.

MISS ADELAIDE NICHOLS

PERIODS OF PAIN

While no woman is entirely free from periodic suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Irregularities and pain are positive evidence that something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to serious derangement of the feminine organism.

Thousands of women, have found relief from all periodic suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs that period of its terrors. Women who are troubled with painful or irregular functions should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health and strength by taking

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Miss Adelaide Nichols of 324 West 22nd Street, New York City, writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—If women who suffer would only rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound their troubles would be quickly alleviated. I feel greatly indebted for the relief and health which has been brought to me by your inestimable remedy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures Female Complaints such as Falling and Displacements, and Organic Diseases, Headache, General Debility, Indigestion, and invigorates the whole feminine system. For the derangement of the Kidneys of either sex Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised.

GUILTY, VERDICT IN STANDARD CASE

1,462 Counts for Rebating
Stand in Federal Court

Maximum Fine Would Be $29,240,
000 If Precedent in Criminal
Practice Were Followed.

SOUTHERN CASES ARE NEXT

Chicago, April 15.—The Standard Oil company was found guilty of rebating by a jury in Federal Judge Landis' court. The jury declined the trust was not guilty on 441 counts of the indictment, but that it was liable on 1,462 counts. The maximum fine is $29,000 on each count and the minimum $1,000. Therefore, the maximum gross fines may aggregate $29,240,000.

Whether the court has any discretion to ignore the jury's finding and fine on but one count is a disputed question. The defense does not believe the court will inflict such an unprecedented and enormous sum in fines.

United States District Attorney Sims declares the full penalty in each will not be disproportionate.

Should Pay Maximum Fine.

He says that if a common criminal is sent to prison for thefts of an article worth a few dollars then the imposition of $29,240,000 in fines against a corporation worth $200,000,000, a large portion of which wealth was amassed by collecting rebates, will be reasonable, and according to the practice of the courts in cases of petty criminals.

The high-priced lawyers for the oil company were crestfallen over their defeat. They express a determination to carry the case to the United States supreme court rather than permit their clients to pay the great fine. If a single fine of a hundred thousand dollars is imposed they will pay it but if the fine exceeds $100,000 they will make a desperate fight before advising payment.

The Standard Oil company of Indiana was indicted by the federal grand jury of the northern district of Illinois for accepting concessions, including rebates, reductions in rates and receiving other railroad concessions. The amounts alleged to have been given aggregated $275,000 within eight months. The investigation of the grand jury also disclosed, it is said, that oil was shipped at reduced rates for the Standard from Whiting to southern points.

At Grand Junction, Tenn., it was shipped without rehandling, it was averred while the product of rival oil companies was rehandled in a more expensive manner. The investigation was completed before two grand juries representing the divided jurisdiction of the court.

Southern Charges Next.
The charges concerning Southern shipments have not yet been heard. The railroads mentioned in that connection are the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Evansville & Terre Haute, Illinois Central and the Southern.

The common carriers involved in the evidence of the case just decided are the Chicago & Alton, Chicago Terminal and St. Louis Bridge company.

Of the 1,901 counts, 426 were quashed as defective.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Seabrooke in New Comedy.

The St. Louis Republic of Monday, April 8, has the following to say of "The Man on the Box" at the Kentucky tonight:

What would the old guard, the musical comedy old guard, who knew Tom Seabrooke as King Pommeroy Second, say if they should look in at the Garlick and see the new Man on the Box? Let us hope they would like the change. It is far and away better than Seabrooke's most optimistic friends dreamed his capability of attaining. This man who used to disfigure himself to make the multitude roar, is refreshingly comely. Can you, by any trick of the imagination, see the creator of funny old Pommeroy exhibiting a keen appreciation of the beautiful and the poetic? This new Seabrooke, this army lieutenant, who pretends he is a coachman to be near the girl of his heart, has fine sentiment, choice English and a smart knowledge of men and things.

Mr. Seabrooke must be almost as old as Kaiser Wilhelm, but we behold a graceful actor with handsome youth, a merry laugh that seems to come from the heart, and an agility almost boyish. Those who say Henry Dixey as Lieutenant Worburton, may insist that Dixey has a shade the better of it, but they will like Seabrooke. Those who haven't seen Dixey will proclaim Seabrooke something of a wonder. Comparisons, of course, are almost inevitable, since Dixey was at the Garlick only a few weeks ago.

"The Man on the Box" is somewhat similar to the automobile play, "The Lightning Conductor", done by Kelsey and Shannon, at the Century, more than a year ago. The coachman in this piece is strikingly like the chauffeur in the other comedy.

Sylvia Lynden has taken up the role of the fair Elizabeth Annesley, the girl lieutenant Worburton adores. Miss Lynden has blossomed promisingly since her last St. Louis visit. She plays the part admirably, on the whole. Some of the doubling Thomases who prefer Dixey to Seabrooke may say that Miss Lynden isn't as lovely as the heroine we knew before, though they must admit that Miss Lynden is at all times natural and just as piquant. Thomas Coleman's Colonel Annesley is a parent known only to theatricals.

Sidney Booth is again very much at home as the lieutenant's intimate associate, Charles Henderson.

When Dixey suddenly left the company in Iowa, Mr. Booth stepped into the title part, and he is credited with giving a most satisfactory performance.

"The Man on the Box" in a nutshell, is a bright farce with the swiftness of melodrama threaded into its fun.

A large audience enjoyed the performance last night.

The soothing influence of relief After suffering from itching Piles, From Eczema or any Itchiness of the skin, Makes one feel grateful to the remedy.

Doan's Ointment has soothed hundreds. Here's what one Paducah citizen says:

J. R. Womble, of 1162 Broadway, Paducah, Ky., says: "For years I was a sufferer from itching piles in a very severe form. They were the plague of my life. When I would get heated up they would annoy me terribly and at night I could get no rest. I have often got up and walked around the room. I believe I have tried nearly every remedy that has been on the market but nothing ever gave me the desired relief until I got a box of Doan's Ointment at DuBois & Co.'s drug store. The very first application gave me relief and after the second day I could go to bed at night and sleep as peacefully and quietly as anyone. The one box cured me entirely. It is now about three months since I used it and there has been no sign of a return. I also used the Ointment on my hand for a sore and found it very healing." (From statement given in 1900.)

A Lasting Cure.

On Feb. 18, Mr. Womble confirmed the above statement by saying: "I gave a statement in 1900 telling how Doan's Ointment has cured me of a severe case of itching piles. I am glad to confirm that statement at this time as the cure has been lasting. Doan's Ointment is certainly a superior remedy for this trouble or any skin affection."

Experiments in Date Culture Said to Show Great Success.

San Antonio, Tex., April 15.—The growing of date palms for their fruit is a new and rapidly developing industry along the delta of the Rio Grande in Texas.

Experts from the department of agriculture at Washington have made exhaustive experiments in this section, with the result that they unreservedly advise the planting of date palms in a considerable territory that by means of soil surveys has been found to be particularly adapted to their growth.

This, with the exception of a small area along the Gila river, in Arizona, is the only section of the United States where these trees do well.

THE SOUTH'S ADVANTAGE.

Industrial New England and the Pacific slope are scenes of repeated strikes. In a few months the farmers of the west will be crying in vain for help in the harvest fields. In the south labor is actually going to waste.

When we awaken to a realization that the race question is susceptible of solution on its economic side rather than its social side, we shall realize that the south is the only section of the whole United States that has a sufficiency of good common labor. What was and what might have been is a threadbare topic. Race separation is an idle dream for idle minds. Let us face conditions as they exist, and use them for our practical benefit, instead of using them only for an excuse.

The colored race we shall have with us always. In increasing numbers, in increasing potency for good or evil. Here is the south's work cut out for her. Shall the colored men be an economic force, creating wealth for the south, or shall he be developed into a burden to the country and a menace to society? It matters not what others have said and done. It matters not what attitude the northern press may take. This problem is a southern problem and the south must solve the problem in its own way, ignoring comments and criticisms of long distance observers.

The question is now confronting us in all its seriousness. Some people allow themselves to sink into and become a part of their environments. Others rise above their environments, adapt them to their ends, and turn an apparent curse into a material blessing. This very thing is possible in our own section. The colored man is the natural laborer of the south. He always will be. To supplant him with imported labor is as impracticable as it is absurd. It would simply produce more idle colored people, and therefore more idle labor. Idle labor means cheap labor, and the cheapness of it here would drive the laborers back north, where there is a demand for them.

The contention is made, and not altogether without merit, that colored labor is declining in efficiency. Then it is our part to train colored labor to the highest degree of efficiency. Have we not patience for the task? That is an admission of incompetency, rather than an expression of the enormity of the task; for patience is a necessary element of the master mind, and infinite patience is an attribute of divinity itself.

Let us have less talk of race war, and more of industrial harmony. Let us not forget that in discouraging the bad negro, it would also be the logical thing to encourage the good negro.

Atlanta, awakened to a grave situation, has determined to give as much public attention to the direction of the colored energies into the channels of industry, as it has to a condition, which a bad press and worse politicians have done their utmost to create. When this movement, inaugurated in that progressive city, gets in full swing, the south will have an advantage over the rest of the country that a century may not serve to modify.

It was unfortunate for H. H. Rogers that the story about the alleged $5,000,000 conspiracy to unhorse the national administration became public just prior to the publication of Mr. Rogers' interview on the relation of the administration to the business interests of the country. The story casts a grim shadow over the words of Mr. Rogers. His financial operations indicate the patriotism of his motives and no doubt his prophetic words would have sunk deep in the public consciousness had it not been previously reported that Mr. Rogers was party to a political plot. Too bad. And this was the first time Mr. Rogers had ever rushed into print.

Between aged, sick Senator Morgan, who sees the country going to ruin under corporate domination and Republican misrule, and H. H. Rogers, whose patriotic soul is torn with anguish at the thought of industrial havoc being wrought by the Republican administration, the voters are naturally puzzled. When the "ultra-conservatives," who want existing conditions let alone, and the "radicals" who desire revolution, unite against Roosevelt, they seem quite imposing—and noisy.

At the registration in Owensboro preparatory for the local option election 4,050 people registered, which indicates that everybody entitled to vote, to say the least, will participate.

That $5,000,000 conspiracy story may make the vote a little slow coming out in some doubtful precincts.

SEVEN MURDERED

TERRIBLE DEED OF TEXAS ROBBER DISCLOSED IN FIRE.

Building Burned To Cover Up Crime But Bloody Clothing Tells the Tale.

Dallas, Tex., April 15.—That J. W. Price and his entire family, consisting of five, a step-daughter and a niece, residing at Grayson, Gunter county, sixty miles from Dallas, were murdered and their bodies cremated in their home is strongly indicated by a post-mortem examination after the fire.

The dead are: J. T. Price, Annie Price, 18 years old; Homer Price, aged 14; Roy Price, aged 6; Belle Price, aged 20; Jettie Byers, aged 17; Aline Upchurch, a niece residing with the family, aged 13.

The smoking ruins of the house were discovered by M. W. Elmer, a neighbor, early this morning, and it was at first thought Price had attempted to start a fire with kerosene, and that the can had exploded, killing him instantly. Later investigation by Dr. Bouls, of Gunter; Leslie Moore, of Van A. Stynes, and Dr. Shelby, of Gunter, revealed the fact that remnants of the clothing worn by the girls which had escaped the fire, were soaked with what the physicians believed to be blood, while near the body of Homer Price was found a pillow soaked with what was also believed to be blood.

It is now believed that the inmates of the house were murdered and the residence burned to conceal the crime. Neighbors say that Price, who was wealthy had much money in the house, and think that after killing him the eldest son was probably murdered to prevent detection and the house set fire. The bodies of all except Price were found upstairs although that of the son was some distance from where he had been sleeping.

It was unfortunate for H. H. Rogers that the story about the alleged $5,000,000 conspiracy to unhorse the national administration became public just prior to the publication of Mr. Rogers' interview on the relation of the administration to the business interests of the country. Russia in Persia.

St. Petersburg, April 15.—Advices from the Caucasus say that Russia is assembling troops on the Persian frontier for demonstration, which it is thought will soon be necessary. Newspaper correspondents are not allowed to telegraph news of the movement of the troops, but it is known that twenty railroad cars loaded with artillery and three regiments of Cossacks passed through Kars on their way south last week. The Russian diplomats hope that the moral effect produced by the massing of troops on the frontier will enable the shah to restore order without an actual invasion. The dissolution of the Persia assembly may be necessary.

A passenger entered a railway carriage already containing ten people and placed with great care a small valise under the seat. "There," he said, "now I hope no accident will happen to that." "Why, what is it?" asked an indiscreet passenger. "Dynamite," replied the man, whereupon the ten inconspicuously fled, leaving him in possession and he proceeded to open the valise containing "dynamite" and ate his lunch in comfort. —Nos. Loistsrs.

Loyalists and Unionists Use Church Turn About At Jackson.

Jackson, Tenn., April 15.—Chancellor E. L. Bullock yesterday modified the injunction brought by the Loyalists of the Cumberland Presbyterian church of this city against the Unionists so as to permit both the complainants and the defendants respectively to have the exclusive use and control of the church property alternately, or "week and week about." The injunction was granted by County Judge Tyree, of Gibson county and was to restrain the Unionists from interfering with the Loyalists in their possession of the church. Later, attorneys for the Unionists moved to have the injunction dissolved and the case was argued here at length by Supreme Judge Caldwell, for the Loyalists and Attorneys Spraggins and Biggs for the Unionists.

Could Do Better.

An old man in a Jersey town was light-fingered and would appropriate anything that came in his way. On account of his age his neighbors would not make any complaint, as his pilferings were confined to eggs, potatoes, soap and other small articles. It happened one night a load of dried fish arrived at the wharf too late to put into the storehouse, so the owner covered them up with a tarpaulin and was about to go home when he noticed the old fellow standing near and eyeing the fish.

"Peter" said the owner, "I've got to leave this pile of fish out on the wharf over night. Now, if I give you these two fine fellows, will you promise not to steal any others?"

"That's a fair offer, Mr. Smith," agreed the kleptomaniac, slowly, "but—well—I think I can do better."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

AND CITIZENS' RELATIONS TO THEM DISCUSSED.

Mrs. Herbert W. Mengel, of Louisville Will Address People in Parish House.

Mrs. Herbert W. Mengel, of Louisville, who will address the open meeting of the Woman's club of Paducah Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Parish house of Grace Episcopal church, on "The Citizen as a Patron of the Public Schools," is a woman of force and brilliancy and well conversant with her live subject. She is a member of the Education committee of the Kentucky Federation of Women's clubs, which has made a practical study of the needs of Kentucky along the educational lines of the public school system and the district trustee system as given in the last report of the state superintendent of public instruction; of Kentucky's place in education as reported in the last census; the need of graded schools in the rural districts, and other facts of vital importance. Mrs. Mengel's paper on the "Public Schools of Kentucky," read before the State Federation of Women's clubs at Mt. Sterling last June, showed a fearless grasp of the subject and was ordered published in pamphlet form for circulation. In this speech she makes such thought-provoking statements as these:

"I suppose you are aware that we are in the midst of the greatest educational movement this country has ever seen, not even being equalled by that crusade which Horace Mann started in Massachusetts some fifty years ago, and the strategic point of this whole movement seems to be the rural schools. Especially is this so in the south, where between eight-ninths and nine-tenths of the people are living in the rural districts, absolutely dependent upon the rural schools for education. To make these schools better in equipment and to make them take on the peculiar qualities that will best fit the children for their environment has become the end and aim of education. If Kentucky is to be an essential and a creditable part of these United States, she cannot afford to lag behind in educational matters, as she is now doing. Now, if Kentuckians have a fault, I fear it is supreme self-satisfaction—a fault that is unfortunately most paralyzing to progress. When members of this committee have discussed with friends the educational status of Kentucky, we have been remonstrated with most feelingly. You do not like to hear such things. It seems rank disloyalty—almost sacrilege—to put Kentucky so far down the line. Occasionally, when we have asked for Kentucky's place in education, we have met this answer: 'Why, she is first, of course; how could she be anything else?' And then, too, you have been inclined to attribute Kentucky's illiteracy to the colored population, but if you eliminate the colored population, Kentucky is no longer thirty-seventh, but forty-second, in the descending scale of education. And this difference is because we have calmly sat and let Virginia, Florida, Mississippi, Georgia and Arkansas slip in ahead of us on the list."

"Last year this education committee of the State Federation sent out a list of questions to every woman's club in the state, requesting that answers be returned after a personal investigation of their schools. Gradually those answers came in, showing various degrees of carelessness in the consideration of the subject. One thing, however, all of those clubs seemed to have in common, viz.: a too great satisfaction in the conditions as they exist.

"To be sure, the women's clubs are in the most progressive towns and cities that we have, and so the schools visited were undoubtedly the most progressive and up-to-date schools that we have, and yet they are by no means what they should be.

"In the first place not one of those clubs reported that manual training had any part in the school curriculum; and yet all over the country the necessity of training the hand as a means of training the head is a well recognized fact. (Manual training in the high schools of Louisville is the modern exception in this case.)

"Not one of these clubs reported that physical culture holds any place in school life, and yet we know that a sound body is necessary for a sound mind. Now, how can you be satisfied when two such important factors in modern education are ignored by our schools?"

"Not one of those clubs reported that there is an examination by their board of health of their school buildings, premises, teachers or pupils. And yet there is many and many a school building in a sanitary condition that would not be tolerated in the home. You can even find school rooms where the same bucket of water and the same tin-cup (relics of barbarism) are still giving all the children a drink and, incidentally, giving them several other things beside. And you can find many a school room where atmosphere is the only cause for the number of clogged brains."

"A club member who spent much time last winter visiting our various schools, remarked that she had been taking school air in broken doses, with a headache in every dose, and that if there is any one thing that public school teachers need to be taught it is the gospel of fresh air."

"Right at the present time there is a great deal of excitement over the prevention and cure of tuberculosis, and yet we have teachers in our schools in more or less advanced stages of the disease, and it needs only a medical examination to find many children similarly affected, and hundreds of others with sore eyes and sore throats and sundry other things, which they are passing gratuitously along the line. Now, how can you be satisfied when not even the health of your children is properly safeguarded by the necessary sanitary precautions?"

"And how can you be satisfied when your school buildings and your school grounds are teaching, by the silent influence of environment, neither lessons of culture nor beauty?"

"And how can you be satisfied when the men on your school boards are put there not because they are men of intelligence, or culture, or high aims for human progress, but because they have the necessary political pull or, maybe, the necessary political pliancy?"

SOCIOLOGY

AND EPISCOPAL VOWS SOMETIMES DO NOT AGREE.

Bishop Looks Into Conduct of Young Clergyman Arrested in House in New York.

New York, April 13.—Bishop Greer of the Episcopal diocese in this city, set the seal of his disapproval upon sociological investigations of tenderloin vice by clergymen when he deposed from the ministry today the Rev. W. Howard Mears, assistant curate of St. Matthew's Episcopal church on Eighty-fourth street.

Mr. Mears is the young clergyman who was arrested in a house on Seventh avenue on March 12, in company with a negro woman. The charge against him was resisting an officer in the performance of his duty. Mears had a fight with two detectives who followed him to the house with the woman, and they locked him up. He was discharged the next day, after explaining that he had simply been gathering sociological evidence for a sermon and thought that the detectives were confederates of the woman who, he said, was trying to rob him.

The court discharge was not sufficient, however, for the officers of the Episcopal diocese, and subsequently Bishop Greer called a board of inquiry to determine more exactly the nature of the young clergyman's sociological studies than was brought out in court. The detectives and other witnesses in the case were summoned to the see house in Lafayette street last week and examined.

From the evidence adduced the board submitted findings to Bishop Greer, and upon these findings the bishop based his action today. He found Mr. Mears guilty of the violation of one of his ordination vows. Mr. Mears at the hearing before the board continued to insist that there was nothing out of the way in his association with the negro woman, and that he went with her merely to ascertain the methods resorted to in the tenderloin. The woman has been doing penance at Blackwell's island on the charge of disorderly conduct.

Mr. Mears' wife, a pretty young woman, has stood by her husband from the start. She was present at the police court hearing and before the board of inquiry, and has defended him to all who have approached her. She corroborated her husband's statement that he had been a sociological student for some time.

She knew that such investigations were distasteful to her husband, but that they aided him in his work.

Mr. Mears last night mailed his resignation from St. Matthew's to the bishop.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John F. Fife, one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helleborus) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a tonic and invigorant, and makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues: "In Helleborus we have a medicine which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fife further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helleborus (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea, a tonic (weak) condition of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; nervousness (flicking), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea, or irregular or scanty monthly periods, or any other abnormality of the reproductive system of the digestive organs and female (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

"If more or less of the above symptoms are present, an invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or eleuthera, and the medicinal properties of which it most faithfully represents."

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in disorders of the stomach, in all cases of accompanying anorexia and general debility, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root:

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. H. Harlow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flowing) and consequent dysmenorrhea (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

DISTRESS GROWING.

Some Horrible Tales of Famine in Chinese Province.

Shanghai, April 15.—Telegrams received by the relief committee here today from a number of additional famine districts report that the distress is growing worse. Some of the sufferers are contending against fever or smallpox in addition to lack of food.

Among the incidents related is that of a boy who applied for aid whose face was so plump that at first assistance was denied him, but later it was shown that his body was greatly emaciated, the plumpness of his face being due to starvation.

A starving man choked himself to death by swallowing almost whole a biscuit which had been given to him by a casual visitor.

A woman with three children was found weeping on a bridge where her husband had fallen dead from starvation.

A husband, wife and their five children were discovered in a house starving to death huddled together, clothed in rags. The bark of trees had been their only food.

The gratitude of the poor people who are given relief is very touching.

"I had no idea," he said, "that you were contemplating anything of the sort."

"I was not," Spencer answered grimly. "I am as much surprised myself as all my friends will be."

Duncombe was puzzled.

"I am afraid I don't quite understand," he said. "You can't mean that your people—"

"No. My people have nothing to do with it," Spencer answered. "I have left the past, but not from them. It is Paris which will have no more of me. I live here of course on my faculties for obtaining information and my entree into political and social life. To-day the minister of police has declined to receive me or at any future time, my cards of entry into the chamber and half a dozen places have been revoked, my name has been expunged from the visiting list of the president and practically of every other person of importance. All that I may see of Paris now is from the outside. And there is no appeal."

"But what is the reason of it, Spencer? What have you done? How have you offended all these people?"

Spencer hesitated.

"I don't want you to blame yourself in any way, Duncombe," he said. "You could not possibly have guessed the sort of thing you were up against. But the fact remains that my offense is in having sent my friends up to the Cafe Montmartre on your account and to being suspected of rendering you further assistance in your search for those two unscrupulous young English people."

"You are not joking by any chance, are you?" Duncombe asked gravely.

"The matter," Spencer replied, "does not appear to me to lend itself to anything of the sort."

Duncombe buried his head in his hands for several moments.

"Great heavens!" he murmured. "Let me think. I can't tell you how sorry I am, old chap. Can't the thing be explained? As a matter of fact, you were discreetly silent."

"I don't want it explained," Spencer said, "even if it would do any good."

COMMITTEE WILL CONTINUE CASE

Probe Brownsville Incident to Bottom

Testimony so far Contains Nothing Incriminating Against Soldiers of Twenty-Fifth.

CITIZENS HAVE INNING NEXT.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—If the senate investigation into the Brownsville affair were to stop just where it is now there could be but one verdict reached by the committee. That would be an acquittal for every member of the three companies of the Twenty-fifth infantry which were stationed at Port Brown on the night of Aug. 13 when the shooting up of the town took place.

There simply has not been a scrap of evidence presented to the senate committee which in the slightest way tends to incriminate the soldiers. The men have stood the severest cross examination by the best lawyers in the senate. Not one of them has been confused, although they all are ignorant colored men. From the newest recruit to the oldest noncom, they have maintained their alignment from the beginning to the end. Their stories dovetail with absolute precision, and all the members of the committee admit that so far as the accused men themselves are concerned their case is complete.

To cap the climax, the white officers of the battalion, from the major down to the youngest subaltern, have expressed their belief under oath that the men did not do it under the circumstances. If the inquiry were to stop at this point, therefore, the inference would be irresistible that a great mistake had been made and that three companies of faithful soldiers had been discharged without honor from the service of the United States as a result of a plot by the people of Brownsville to get rid of them.

Other Side of the Case. There is another side to the story, however. The senate, with characteristic persistency, has gone to work on the case wrong end foremost. That is to say, the investigation has developed the line of the defense entirely. The prosecution has not been heard at all. The senate committee, of course, is not proceeding as a court would. The witnesses are not bound by the ordinary rules of evidence. The committee is seeking to get the facts. It has no power to punish. For that reason it became convenient to call the men themselves, first, and then the white officers of the battalion. So it happened that every witness thus far heard—and there have been dozens of them—has only added to the impression that the people of Brownsville shot themselves up and then attempted to put the blame on the negro troops, who were quietly in their quarters in the fort on the edge of the town.

The committee will convene again on May 14 and then the people of Brownsville will have their innings. When the senate committee gets down to the work of receiving the evidence from the prosecution, the present status of the Brownsville case will change a good deal. There is an abundance of evidence, which no one disputes, that several houses in Brownsville were shot up by high powdered cartridges of the kind ordinarily used in the Springfield rifles supplied to the men of the regular army. Some of these steel bullets have been cut out of the wood. Cartridge cases and clips of the kind ordinarily used by the soldiers were found on the streets of Brownsville the day after the shooting.

Police men and citizens testified that they saw certain men in khaki on the streets who were shooting. The chief of police was wounded and a barkeeper was killed. Brownsville citizens testified they saw soldiers climbing over the wall of the fort. Others declared that the shooting was done from the porch of the barracks.

FOR FORAKER

SENATOR DICK SAYS HE WILL SUPPORT HIS COLLEAGUE.

Goes Home to Mix Up Things in Ohio Politics for Secretary Taft.

Washington, April 15.—Senator Charles Dick, of Ohio, will stand by Senator Foraker in the political battle now being waged for the presidential endorsement of the Buckeye state. He announced this afternoon that he would go to Ohio next week to take an active part in the campaign, and that he would "most assuredly support Senator Foraker."

The senator added that he did not expect to take charge of headquarters but he said he would confer with his friends throughout the state. He smiled when his attention was called to reports from Ohio that he was luke warm in support of his colleague, because many of his lieutenants of the old Hanna machine, of which he is committee head, have notified him that they would abandon his leadership if he attempted to fight President Roosevelt.

While the senator would not discuss this phase of the situation, it is no secret that his friends will resist to the utmost all contentions that the contest in his state is between the president and Foraker. The belief is growing that the Foraker forces are attempting to "smoke out" the president.

Friends of the administration insist that as soon as Secretary Taft returns from Porto Rico he will recognize the advisability of openly endorsing his candidacy by going in person to Ohio to take charge of the Taft forces, or withdrawing from the contest.

These advisers of President Roosevelt recognize that if Senator Dick can hold the McKinley-Hanna state organization in line for Foraker that Secretary Taft's lines have fallen into troublesome places. Dick's announcement has increased interest in the Ohio contest.

Out of Sight.

"Out of sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special force to a sore, burn or wound that's been treated with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's out of sight, out of mind and out of existence. Piles too and chilblains disappear under its healing influence. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Shipbuilders Go Back to Work. Loraine, O., April 15.—Hundreds of ship builders employed by the American Shipbuilding company, at the ship yards here, will return to work Monday morning. It was stated upon good authority. The men have been on strike about two weeks, and will return to work under the old conditions. They had very little money in the treasury when they struck, but they held out as long as they could get credit at the stores. They struck because President Walker would not grant them a shorter work day. He said they would have to take the matter up with the superintendent at the yard.

are benefited, though they never go near the building. They cannot evade being benefited in some manner by it. The forces exerted by a library are silent forces. They do not loudly proclaim their presence, nor advertise their effects. But the greatest powers in the world are of that nature. We notice it in the growth of a tree, in the development of our bodies. From day to day there is no perceptible change, weeks and months seem to make no difference, as the years go by and we make comparisons, we are surprised to note a marked change. The higher the power the slower and more unobserved the progress. The silent influence of the library is being felt in our entire city. The greatest benefit comes to them who use it, and everyone can find a great deal that is helpful in his or her line of business or thought. The merchant, the laborer, the mechanic, the lawyer, the doctor, the minister, but especially the teacher. It is of help in the search for information and a wonderful help in teaching, by directing the scholars to the sources to search for themselves for information and inspiration. For activity and not receptivity is the secret of learning.

The Library.

Besides all this the library gives everyone an opportunity to gain an insight into the problems and heartaches of other professions and occupations. The physician has a medical library far better than anything at the public library, the lawyer has a library of legal lore, the politician a political, if any, the minister a theological, the teacher a literary and pedagogical. Our books and magazines are according to our profession. The public library gives us an opportunity to gain an insight into the questions of other lines of action and thought. Our views are broadened thereby and we understand better and have a deeper sympathy for others who spend their thoughts and efforts in entirely different realms than we. It does us good. It increases the interest in life, helps us in our work and brings us in closer touch with our fellowmen.

The building itself with its surroundings, next to a church, is an inspiration. A monument to the pre dominance of the better and nobler in life. Thus the mere existence of the library has its influence. Then the silent witness of the world's best authors through their books and articles cannot but have an influence for good on those who enter the beautifully decorated and well kept building. We have reason to be proud of our Carnegie library and know that we and the generation that is now rising to manhood and womanhood will be the better for it.

The Public School.

But the most common educational agency is the public school. The public schools are a wonderful power in our country. An education is offered to all practically free of charge. Those pay for it who can. No one has an excuse for not gaining at least a fair education. These schools are efficient, especially those of the villages and cities. Teachers are required to pass examinations, teachers' institutes are held and summer schools are visited. In general our schools have good teachers, some with many years of experience, and they are doing a work as noble, uplifting and far-reaching in its effects as that done by anyone. They are mostly Christian men and women who are serving our country and humanity with devotion and self-sacrifice. We have all reason to be proud of our educational system. It is taking children from all parts of the world from all conditions of life and making them into good, common sense, practical Americans. The transformation is so rapid that it is astonishing. The other countries recognize the value of our educational system. About three years ago a wealthy English philanthropist with about 30 English educators and statesmen visited our country for the purpose of studying our school system. This is one of the sentences contained in their official report on their return: "Honesty, doggedness, pluck and many other good qualities, possessed by Britons, though valuable in themselves, are useless today unless accompanied by practical, up-to-date, scientific knowledge; and such knowledge is possible only by a broad and enlightened system of education, such as the United States has."

Furthermore our schools bring all together on an equal basis and thus prepare for that general fellowship and co-operation which is a distinctive and important feature of our country. There are no classes. Everyone stands on his own merits.

There are always some who try to foster the class spirit, but all such efforts are lost sight of in the general current of thought.

We are reminded of Archie Roosevelt. Several years ago some one expressed his surprise to the little fellow that he went to the public school, saying that he was of a much higher class than those boys he went to school with. Archie answered, "Papa says there are only two kinds of boys, big boys and little boys, good boys and bad boys." This is the idea our schools do stand for and it is of the greatest value to our republic that it should be preserved.

If only a few are educated, that can and will pay for it, and the masses are neglected we retard the healthful progress of society and thus indirectly injury comes even to the few favored ones.

As we lift ourselves we must lift others. Moreover, it is one of the best investments. The more we give the more we gain. By trying to elevate the standard of education and culture for others we grow and gain.

Improvement.

As we look at our school system we say we can justly be proud of it. But we are not and dare not be blinded to its needs. Our schools and colleges are not what we would have them be. To realize this is the first step in progress. To a great extent teachers are not what they should be. In most cases methods and equipment are not up to the standard of efficiency and too often politics in school management makes any progress impossible and defeats any and all plans for betterment. And to come a little closer home, Kentucky needs to give some attention to her educational system. In education we find Kentucky thirty-seventh in the list of states, with Virginia, Florida, Mississippi, Georgia and Arkansas ahead of us. We blame the negro, but unjustly. If we eliminate the colored population we would find Kentucky descend to the forty-second place in the educational scale of the states.

We have in our city a Woman's club with its various departments. The educational committee is doing efficient work and we need to give it our assistance in its noble work. These organizations have done wonderful work especially toward making the schools better. They have directed their efforts toward the schools of the rural districts and made them in some states from the worst to the best schools. We need work of that kind. Kentucky needs it and we hope that our Woman's club, through its educational department and in co-operation with similar organizations of our state, will finally change many of the country schools of which we need to be ashamed to schools of which we may be proud.

Finally we need to consider the Sunday schools and the churches as the highest agencies of education. They are doing splendid work, but still there is need and room for more and better work. Of Paducah's 4,600 white children of school age 1,500 are not in Sunday school; of the 3,000 of the county, 2,000 are not in Sunday school. In the state of Kentucky over 400,000 white children of school age are out of the Sunday schools. There is a great work for us to do. May the efforts of all good people be united to lift and educate our race.

Christ said in answer to the first temptation: "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Does God speak to us? We hear his voice from our inward better self, we hear it from history, we hear it from nature as it summons us, we hear it through the hopes and lives of good people, we hear it distinctly from God's book, the Bible. It is calling to us constantly. As we heed it and follow it we are drawing out, educating, educating the good impulses and traits and we live the only true life by the word of God. That is education. It is the education exemplified by Christ's development as we read of it in Luke 11, 32, "And Jesus advanced in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man."

The Mountaineer was explaining why he never was on a jury. Lifting his hat he placed his forefinger on the left side of his head and pointed out a slight elevation on his cranium. "That means a fellow's head is cultivated," he said, "and you never saw an intelligent man on a jury in your life. Of course, them twelve fellows thinks they are the smartest men in the county, to be selected out of the whole population, but they're the dinglest fools that could be found. Lawyers won't have no others. Now, there's Ill over there, he'd be the first fellow they'd take on a jury." Then the crowd laughed.

Tricks of the Squirrel.

"It is surprising to note," the Dundee Advertiser observes, "the various means employed by squirrels to escape detection. One may flatten himself out against a gray patch on the back of a tree trunk, absolutely motionless; and unless in your earnest, steadfast looking you can detect an ear or a shoulder in relief against the sky you might as well abandon search. Another may lie along a bough flattened at full length; but here the tell-tale ears are more easily seen. Still another may crouch drawn up in the fork of a branch, and here the thing to look for is the fluffy tip of the tail. Again, one may gather himself up in a bunch to imitate a knot, and here he can very well tell when you have spied him out. He will catch your eyes even as you catch the eyes of an acquaintance in a crowd, and will instantly start on a headlong flight, leaping from tree to tree, till he vanishes from your sight."
